GARRY HERRMANN OFFERS NEW PLAN

Regular Schedules of 112 Games to Be Followed by One of 64.

NATIONALS VS. AMERICANS

Sixteen Teams to Battle for World Title and $150,000 in Prizes.

Following the suggestion of August Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, to cut down the players' share of the world series money comes another, also from Mr. Herrmann, which probably will receive much attention during the major league meetings this winter. Mr. Herrmann favors interleague championship games, with each major circuit limited to the usual playing schedule of 112 games, after which a sixty-four game schedule will be played in which the teams will be divided into two groups of eight teams each. The teams in each group will play each other in a round robin fashion, with the winners of each group meeting in the final championship game.

Since the interleague plan was first suggested, it has been the subject of much discussion. The plan was first suggested by Mr. Herrmann, who is a strong advocate of the interleague plan. He has been heard of the idea since the close of the ball season and is willing to hear arguments pro and con. The plan is being discussed by the National Commission, which is the governing body of the major leagues.

In the Wake of the Game

By GUS MALBERT

If no news is good news, then considerable progress must have been made at the University of Virginia this week. A graveyard of noise is being cleared away, and the University is working overtime, and can give little consideration to anything else, but a few words of cheer might do a world of good in revitalizing the waning interest.

Officials for the game in Nashville Saturday have been chosen. Walter Eckersall, the ex-University of Chicago star, will referee; Mike Donnelly, of Dartmouth, will be the umpire, and Chigger Brown will be the linesman. Vanderbilt, it is said, was anxious to have Ted Coy as umpire, but he was not pleasing to Virginia; therefore the change.

There will be plenty of cheering on the gridiron Saturday, and much in local fandom will be interested. First and of greatest importance will be the local game between the University of North Carolina and Georgetown. It has been definitely determined that Rhinebold, the star Blue and Gray tackle, will not be in the line-up, and the probability is that White, the lunging full back, will be shot into his tackle. Obviously, this will weaken the defense of the Washingtonians, and is not going to help them offensively. Carolina, aside from blunting at various changes from the line-up which faced V. P. I. refuses to divulge anything.

Richmond College goes into its first championship game Saturday against Hampden-Sydney. While we would be glad to predict great things for the Red and Blue, there is nothing we can tie to except a string of defeats, many of which should have been easy victories. Prospects are that the game will be more of a Marathon for Hampden-Sydney than a race. The game will be more of a Marathon for Hampden-Sydney than a race. The game will be more of a Marathon for Hampden-Sydney than a race.

Down at Williamsburg the eleven of William and Mary College, which appears allured long on pluck, but a wee bit shy on ability, will watch the Yellow Jackets romp across the goal line as often as they feel disposed, provided their wind is good.

All of which means that the championship of the Eastern Virginia Intercollegiate Association will, in all probability, go to the Methodists for the second time. The very worst they can suffer is a tie, and that will come only because Hampden-Sydney wins the next game. To penalties is charged the defeat of the hands of Roanoke College. Perhaps there will be fewer penalties at the hands of the Garnet and Gray—got it right that time, Jimmie.

V. P. I. will have its work cut out to win from Washington and Lee. This little engagement is to be staged at Roanoke, and all along the line folks will be drifting into the Magic City to watch the fray. V. P. I. should win, but no friend of the Lexington university will admit. There is some justification in this stand, too, for Washington and Lee usually has a pretty fair sample of a football eleven.

Manager Sheppard Crump, of the Blues, is hopeful of securing a football game for his charges with the University of Virginia. He has been in correspondence with the management at Charlottesville, and there appears to be no reason why satisfactory arrangements cannot be made. If the two football games will be played Saturday, November 2, at Charlottesville. That is the last date open before the game with Georgetown in Washington on November 16.

BUILD MORE STALLS AT JAMESTOWN TRACK

Manager Levy Returns From West and Hustling Begins in Anticipation of Rush of Horses Headed This Way.

Norfolk, Va., October 30.—Word came down from Laurel yesterday that the vanguard of the army of horses coming this way from the Maryland fair track would arrive Saturday morning. The first shipment will consist of four car loads. J. W. Heister, Hugh, twelve head, J. Falk two, C. Mertz two, P. L. nine, J. S. W. Street six, J. L. W. G. King-Dodds six. And there will be room at the race track proper for these and other horses that take part in the meeting this fall. One hundred and thirty-five stalls have been finished, and the construction of four-score has begun since the return of General Manager Bob Levy from the West.

Mr. Levy said this afternoon that the old practice of stabling horses at the exposition grounds, which has been found both inconvenient and expensive, will be abandoned. The new stables are conveniently constructed and comfortable, and the old ones. Mr. Levy has already begun preparation for the opening, Wednesday, November 12, which will be Ladies' Day. Sixty souvenir programs, a little more over and artistic than any ever offered before, will be distributed among the women.

Superintendent George Miller has recovered from a spell of malaria and is getting the track in ship shape for the working of horses against the arrival of the bunch from Laurel on Saturday. He expects to show "victory" going by the middle of next week.

The horses coming from Laurel will be followed Monday and Tuesday by a lot from the Lexington and Jamestown Jockey Club fall, and it is expected that half the racers now at the Cincinnati track will head this way as soon as the gates of the Lantonia course close.

The best horses shop operator of J. L. Holland, a buckskin stallion with horse talk all over the country, are hilarious. He is a son of the former a son of Victor and Harpshard and the latter a son of Sombrero and Berriedale and a half-brother to Biturica (dam of Maskette), also to Kinleydale, a capital horse in his time. Sombrero is self a first-rate son of Star Ruby, sire of the Liverpool Grand National Steeplechase winner, Rubbo. Sombrero is in England. He is one of the first-class thoroughbreds driven out of the country by legislation hostile to racing.

Hilarious, one of the handsomest and fastest of the sons of Victor, would be considered one of the best if it were not for his whimsical habit of taking to the high brush every now and then. As no one can guess what his chestnut is going to do, a dependable betting proposition by the regulars.

Hilarious is of an age with Fitzherbert, Sir Martin, Fayette, Maskett and Helmet and at the beginning of the season of 1908 he was supposed to be a better three-year-old than Fitzherbert. But after the big loss of Ethelbert beat him in the Advance Stakes at Sheepshead Bay he dropped out of sight. He was in England in 1910 with Helmet and Helmet a bunch of other Castleton-bred horses, and it was in the United Kingdom, perhaps, that he learned the trick of running out. English training does queer things to American horses sometimes. Helmet, one of the sweetest tempered of racers, became a runaway before he had been in the hands of Mr. Keene's English trainer, Samuel Darling, three weeks.

Hilarious cost $12,000 at public auction a couple of seasons back, and they have won him out. He is up to big weight when disposed to run kindly, and he can step as brisk a three-quarters as the next man's horse. Lately Hilarious has been running in selling races, but Mr. Holland's agent has the old regie in the Exchange Handicap and the Lynnhaven and Thanksgiving selling won by Donald McDonald. Donald McDonald is in the hands of Mr. Holland.

There will be a bunch of Hilarious readings out in a couple of seasons. Dick William mated twenty-old ones.

TRINITY STRONG FOR BASKETBALL

Newly Formed Organization of Carolina Colleges Starts With Good Prospects.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Trinity College, Durham, N. C., October 30.—At the Yarrowburgh Hotel, in Raleigh, last Saturday night, representatives of six North Carolina colleges—Wake Forest, Trinity, Elon, University of North Carolina, Agricultural and Mechanical, and Guilford—met in conference for the purpose of perfecting an organization of the North Carolina colleges to play basketball.

It was the first meeting of the kind that has been held in this state in many, many years, and optimistic lovers of athletic sports here say that it is a good omen of better times to come. The meeting was held in the Yarrowburgh Hotel, in Raleigh, last Saturday night, and was attended by representatives of six North Carolina colleges.

NEW MANAGER FOR CAROLINA'S TEAM

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Chapel Hill, N. C., October 30.—Effective today, L. P. McLenon, of Wadesboro, succeeds Banks H. Mebane, of Spry, as manager of the University of North Carolina football team, the athletic council composed of members of the faculty and students, approving of the change in management this afternoon.

The new manager is a graduate of A. & M. College, of Raleigh, and was manager of the Farmer team of 1909, when they won such a glorious victory over the University of Kentucky in Raleigh during the fall week. Mr. McLenon studied law at the University and secured his license last February and formed a partnership with Mayor W. S. Robertson for the practice of his profession here. He is pursuing graduate studies in the University in addition to his law practice.

The team is in good shape, and will give a good account of itself against Georgetown in Richmond Saturday.

Sadder, but wiser, the University of North Carolina football squad comes from under the crushing defeat received at the hands of the Virginia Techs in Raleigh Saturday to face even a greater conflict next Saturday in the team from Georgetown. The game with V. P. I. Saturday, which was really the first stubborn contest of the season for the Tar Heels, illustrated many rough spots in the coaching staff, and the University of Virginia is a point of scoring, which will make the contest of interest to the spectators. In the first place, the line work was ragged Saturday night to the point of going to pieces, the Tar Heels being able to make consistent gains through the line with little opposition. Carolina's line men did not charge with that push and go that was characteristic of last year's team. The Tar Heels were down to a smaller squad than the victory they won from the Tar Heels in the first place.

As a matter of fact, the comparative score between Carolina and Georgetown in the past is much more favorable to the Tar Heels than the record between Carolina and V. P. I. Therefore the defeat put over by the Tar Heels failed to spell anything toward the result in next Saturday's battle.

The comparative score between the Tar Heels and Georgetown for the past seven years appears in these comparative terms:

In 1906..... 34 9
In 1907..... 6 4
In 1908..... 10 1
In 1909..... 6 1
In 1910..... 6 1
In 1911..... 6 1

It is true, perhaps, that comparative scores often do not mean anything, yet it will give some estimate as to whether the Tar Heels are more or less able to compete on that Carolina will carry her fighting on Saturday night. The Tar Heels are not counting on winning the game in Richmond Saturday with Georgetown, but confidently expect to hold the Washingtonians to a small winning score. It will be interesting all right, and Richmond fans can assure themselves that they will get their money's worth.

Of additional local interest is Saturday's game for the reason that Ritch, center for Georgetown, was Carolina's center last season. To cope with him, the Tar Heels put in Jones, a 224-pounder, who is showing up well, considering his few years' experience in the sport.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN SATURDAY

North Carolina A. & M. to Hold Annual Event to Test Track Men.

West Raleigh, N. C., October 30.—Manager L. C. Hand, of the track team, has announced that the regular annual cross country run will be held on Saturday afternoon, November 2. The race will start at 4 o'clock at the Capitol Square and run out Hillsboro Street and back to the Capitol square, a distance of three miles. There will be four prizes.

The race last year was participated in by about twenty men, first place being won by F. C. Smith in 17 minutes, 11 seconds. There are a large number of men on training, and this race will give a good change to see what kind of track material the Red and White will have this year.

The association students are very much interested in the organization of a basketball league which was effected at a meeting of representatives of all the North Carolina colleges in Raleigh Saturday night.
